

Corporate Project Partners Completes Relocation of Citizens Energy Corp. into New Headquarters in Marine Industrial Park in Boston

Corporate Project Partners also provided complete project management services, including project schedule and budget

BOSTON (December XX, 2003)—Corporate Project Partners, a Boston-based facility planning and project and relocation management services firm, today announced that it has completed Citizens Energy Corp.’s move into a new headquarters in Marine Industrial Park in Boston.

Citizens Energy Corp., a non-profit organization whose successful commercial subsidiaries support a wide array of social and charitable programs in the United States and abroad, recently moved into its new 11,200-square-foot corporate headquarters at 88 Black Falcon Ave., a 400,000-square-foot office and industrial building in the Marine Industrial Park in Boston. The firm relocated from Boston’s Russia Wharf at 530 Atlantic Ave.

Corporate Project Partners worked closely with Boston-based Margulies & Associates, one of Boston’s leading architecture and interior design firms, and provided a full range of project management and coordination services to support Citizens Energy in its move from Russia Wharf.

In its role as focused client advocate and project manager, Corporate Project Partners monitored and controlled the project schedule and budget and oversaw the weekend move.

“On Monday morning, the office was fully operational and ready for business,” said Christine Mosholder, Partner of Corporate Project Partners. “Working closely with
