

Corporate Project Partners Named One of the Best Places to Work

Recognized by the BBJ in its fourth annual regional awards program

BOSTON, Mass. – June 22, 2006 – Corporate Project Partners (CPP), a provider of facilities planning, project management and relocation services, announced today that the company has been named one of the Best Places to Work in Massachusetts by the Boston Business Journal (BBJ). The honor recognizes the company's progressive work environment that attracts and retains employees through a combination of employee satisfaction, working conditions and company culture.

The Boston-based Corporate Project Partners was one of more than 300 companies to qualify for consideration, ranking sixth out of 20 in the emerging category based on the results of employee-satisfaction surveys taken throughout the spring.

“As a company that believes doing well means doing good, our company’s success is measured not only in dollars and cents but on the personal success of our employees,” said CPP Partner Steve Fox. “We are equally as proud of our constant growth as the two weddings and four babies we’ve celebrated in our short history.”

“We recognize that our employees have a direct impact on the success of the company,” added CPP Partner Christine Mosholder. “We trust our employees to make the right decisions and empower them to do so.”

"For the fourth year in a row, our results validate how the creation of the right corporate culture can create powerful business advantages," said George Donnelly, Boston Business Journal editor. "Employees are proud to work for companies that are about more than just business."

Companies were evaluated on the results of employee-satisfaction surveys. Employees answered questionnaires that addressed such factors as their pride in the company, company encouragement, support and recognition of achievement and relationships with co-workers and supervisors. The results were analyzed and scored by assigning points to each question.

"Accommodating employees' personal needs pays back dividends of loyalty and productivity. The companies on our list recognize that their commitment to employees is especially important as the economy strengthens and competition for talent continues to grow," said Boston Business Journal Publisher Michael Olivieri. "The Best Places to Work know the care of their employees is instrumental in maintaining the quality and reputation for services and products."
